

THE CONTINUING CONFRONTATION

Remarks of Rev. P. G. Malone to L.S.A.'s "Whatever Happened to Loyola" Campaign

"Whatever happened to Loyola" is a question of such importance to students at Loyola that their leadership has authorized this campaign of study, statement and searching. In so doing, students are within their rights and are acting in the best of academic traditions. They would be delinquent in their duty if they mutely accepted conditions that curtailed the sweep of their educational opportunity. I explicitly acknowledge the importance of this exercise, and I believe that his response to your invitation to day is some evidence of the importance that Rector O'Brien attaches to the issues involved . . .

I do wish to emphasize this central point that may have been lost in the heart of discussion. The creation and welfare of Concordia is an objective strongly endorsed by overwhelming majorities on both campuses. I may say plainly, that I detect no mandate to reopen negotiations that have the blessing of the Board of Governors of Sir George Williams University and of the Board of Trustees of Loyola College. Indeed, if there is a call for further action, I read strong urging that the Government, one of the partners incidentally in creating Concordia, rise out of its long delay to regulate the uncertain situation in which we live and struggle to operate . . .

There is none of us who participated in the negotiations, agreements and current operations of Concordia, who believes that every question in every detail has been settled by the agreed articles. We are all aware that there are a number of items below the general articles of agreement that must be under continuing discussion, must conform to the changing realities of the New University, must be adapted to further its welfare as an important part of the educational establishment in Quebec.

I said that I was not going to comment on the details of grievances put forward by this student assembly. I do feel it my duty, however, to point out that in matters of negotiation, the two institutions came to the table as equals; we did not agree, that parity between Sir George Williams and Loyola was the necessary or even the equitable condition for Concordia to flourish through our ongoing collaboration. Somewhere in your last assembly you made mention about membership on committees . . . I feel confident that if a good case can be made for redistribution of the weight from either campus, our colleagues at Sir George Williams University will fairly consider any reasonable proposal . . .

When I sift through the reports, documentation and interviews that have come from this campaign "Whatever happened to Loyola", I believe that students are less concerned with any protracted discussion about details and more definitely upset by what they call attitudes on the Sir George

NOMINATIONS FOR LOYOLA MEDAL BEING REVIEWED

In August 1961 the Loyola Alumni Association, in collaboration with the Executive of Loyola College conceived the creation of the Loyola Medal as a permanent tribute to outstanding leadership and achievement on the Canadian scene. A Preparatory Committee of prominent Alumni and members of Loyola's Faculty was convened to establish the terms of the Award as well as form a trusteeship which would guarantee its continuity and terms of recognition for the future. The following are the terms of the Award, the procedure for nomination and a description of the Medal itself:

1) The exacting criterion for the awarding of the Loyola Medal will be that its recipient shall be a man or a woman whose character, philosophy, and contribution have enriched the heritage of Canada and humanity;

2) Nominations for the Loyola Medal shall be reviewed annually by a Selection Committee, chaired by the immediate Past-President of the Alumni Association (William Pelton '48) and comprising other members as follows:

The President of Loyola College;
The President of the Loyola Alumni Association;
The Past Presidents of the Loyola Alumni Association;

Williams campus. They refer to a "take over" attitude, to unbalanced representation on working committees and to a host of other things that in their view can be interpreted as a wrong attitude on the part of our colleagues downtown. As a senior officer of Concordia, and a representative from the Loyola campus, I can assure you that there are people on the Sir George Williams campus who detect in various reports, actions, statements and objections a wrong attitude on the part of people at Loyola . . . that the people at Loyola want to participate in the University Charter but retain all the autonomy that they previously had without trying to form one true university . . .

We would be entirely foolish to pretend that a new university is not going to experience differences of opinion, the tensions, the resentments even that seem always to crop up where human beings try to work together, even in well-established universities. I think that the airing of your grievances to-day is a healthy thing. I think that the readiness of Dr. O'Brien Rector of Concordia, to come and listen to your viewpoint and to comment on it is a very hopeful sign for the future. I think, further, that your own willingness to accept the proffered support of the student body at Sir George Williams and to believe that the people at Sir George Williams will give a fair hearing to anything you propose constitute a clear indication that we have at hand on both campuses the resources to form one team in the formation of one university . . .

Some of our students have asked the question "Whatever happened to Loyola?" I think their question is a useful one and I hope the process of answering has been fruitful.

However, I should like to suggest in closing that a more important question before all of us is what will become of Concordia. In my remarks to this campus over the years I have continually stressed that a university is basically a community of teachers and students. Everything else on campus is in place to further their efforts as learning, searching, teaching persons, as human beings in search of the fullness of their humanity. On both campuses we have great assets of competence and dedication, on both campuses we have the conviction that Concordia has a vital role to play in our own lives and the life of Quebec. I hope we can take the risks to fulfill the promise.

of Directors who appreciate and understand the new breed.

Since the "new" alumni are keen on symposia, seminars, and serious questions of university administration, and less in social events and nostalgia, a greater role for young alumni must be found on the Alumni Board of Directors.

Past-President Bill Pelton '48, Chairman of the Nominating Committee, is anxious to find graduates of the past five years who would be willing to serve on the 1974-75 Alumni Board. His Nominating Committee will find some of the needed personnel, but if volunteers come forward with a very definite desire to serve the College and the alumni body, it would make Bill's job easier and the results much more rewarding.

So if you are interested in influencing future alumni programs contact Bill at 735-5541 (office) or 482-6805 (home) before March 1, 1974.

On or before April 10, 1974, the Director of Alumni Affairs will give notice by mail to each member of the Association, enclosing a summary of the report of the Nominating Committee, indicating the names of the members proposed by the Committee for each office and elective seat on the Board, together with a copy of the present By-Law, indicating procedure respecting nominations and elections and indicating the date of the Annual Meeting to be held in May.

Any past student of Loyola of Montreal (Loyola College) or Loyola High School who has completed one full academic year at either institution is eligible for membership in the Loyola of Montreal Alumni Association Inc. and consequently is eligible to become a director of said body.

Wine and Cheese Party A Sell-Out

The wine and cheese get-together scheduled for Thursday February 14, 1974 at La Maison Secrestat was sold out by Thursday January 17, 1974.

Jim Quinlan '58 a Director of the Alumni Association and Chairman of the event reported on September 21, 1973 that he had been in touch with Joseph E. Seagram Distillers regarding a wine tasting evening. Seagrams were agreeable to have a person talk to alumni members on the subject of wines. Their representative would make recommendations on how to buy wine and how to evaluate different wines, provide a tour of the facilities, and then extend an invitation to sample some wines and cheese.

Mr. Quinlan presented the proposal to the Directors and they accepted it. An announcement appeared in the Christmas issue of the Alumnews and there was immediate interest by alumni.

It does not happen too frequently that alumni events are sold out weeks in advance, but obviously Jim found an appealing format.

The Directors will consider the possibility of having more alumni events on a first come first serve basis with a limitation on the number of tickets. Events such as the Loyola Medal Presentation, Golf '74, Hall-of-Fame Reception might prove to be more successful and more efficiently managed if the pay in advance and limitation formula is adopted.

Warriors Club News

As of February 1, 1974 approximately 43% of 1972-73 members of the Warriors' Club have opted for membership in the 1973-74 group.

The Warriors' Club now under the direction of President Terry Pye '69 Vice-President Dan McCann '70, Secretary Frank McNally Jr. '68, and Treasurer Bob Bourgault '63 are in the process of running a very successful Sunday morning hockey league and hope to get basketball and touch football off the ground very soon. Your membership in the Warriors' Club entitles you to privileges in the Loyola Athletic Complex.

A sincere invitation is extended to all alumni and friends to help make the Warriors' Club a very real success.

For further details call Terry Pye at 933-9345, Dan McCann 937-8661, or Frank McNally Jr. 878-1581.

New Role for Alumni Proposed

Call Bill

"An Alumni body is essential if a university or college is to be an institution with a continuity and purpose of its own, not just a publicly administered social utility", so says the report of the president's long range planning committee on alumni affairs at the University of Toronto.

Enough is known about Loyola alumni to make it quite clear that the alumnus of old—the stereotyped back-slapper in a coonskin coat—if he ever existed—has no place in planning for the seventies. Because of the large size of recent graduation classes, about thirty-five to forty per cent of current alumni have left the campus in the last five years. The alumni body is younger and the interests are changing. There is a good deal of evidence that the younger alumni are more interested in seminars than in socializing, more keen about social action than football games.

In order to organize the group and channel its energies there is need, not only for an Alumni Department on Campus, but for an Alumni Board
